

CPD at York

The University of York has been involved in the provision of Continuing Professional Development for over twenty years and is renowned as an excellent provider of executive level CPD courses.

The University aims to meet the development needs of professionals by transferring the innovation, intellectual wealth, skills and knowledge held by the University's academic and research centres into the work environment.

Whilst there are a wide range of established courses, the University is committed to responding to market needs, and works closely with large and small businesses, institutions and public sector organisations to develop new courses according to their current requirements.

Collaboration with industry and public sector practitioners is a key part of CPD focus and new courses are continually being developed in partnership with organisations ranging from the NHS to established blue chip corporations and small start ups.

CPD courses are available to professionals based locally, nationally and internationally, in both the public and private sectors. Courses are designed to be flexible and accessible, and include part-time masters degrees, certificates, diplomas, accredited and non accredited short courses.

Other Opportunities at the University of York

As well as developing and delivering training for organisations across the world the University of York provides a wide variety of other ways for external organisations to engage with the University.

Consultancy – staff across the University of York have experience in delivering a wide range of consultancy projects to support business development and growth Contact aj510@york.ac.uk

Research Partnerships – developing and applying cutting edge research expertise to support public and private sector organisations Contact aj510@york.ac.uk

Project based internships ranging in length from 6 weeks to 12 months. Schemes available, include graduate internships, Summer internships, and part-time term time internship opportunities. Contact hs634@york.ac.uk.

York Cares - a charity which promotes employee volunteering. Its business members actively encourage their members to volunteer. Contact jct4@york.ac.uk

York Award - a certificated programme of transferable skills training and experiential learning for students offered by the University in partnership with leading organisations. Contact hr6@york.ac.uk

Knowledge Transfer Partnerships - partnerships between a company and a university enabling the company to have direct access to the skills and expertise within the university through the employment of a university graduate rma2@york.ac.uk

Business Innovation Reviews – allows organisations to critically review new technologies under development in University departments aj510@york.ac.uk

Student Enterprise and Innovation – opportunity to support York student entrepreneurial activities through “Apprentice and Dragons Den” style activities arf4@york.ac.uk

Graduate Recruitment – get first pick of top quality graduates from the University of York through participation in regular careers events careers@york.ac.uk

Benefactor Giving – a wide range of ways to support the University through financial and other forms of giving alumni@york.ac.uk

For more information

please contact the

Employer Engagement Unit on 0044 1904 435102
as51@york.ac.uk