Challenge yourself to study at university level

What are credits?
Many of our courses carry university accreditation, either at 10 or 20 credits, these form the basis of higher education qualifications nationwide.

What will I gain?
Over two-five years you can build up credits to achieve a 60 and 120 credit certificate in Lifelong Learning, a nationally recognised qualification. Develop your study skills, boost your confidence and meet like-minded people whilst studying at the same level as first year undergraduates.

Are these courses for me?
All of our accredited courses are open to anyone and there are no formal entry requirements. Our tutors are experienced and supportive, and our courses are taught in a friendly and informal atmosphere.

Do I have to sit an exam?
At this level there are no closed examinations. To gain credits you will produce an assessment task, usually a 2,000 word essay, and you will receive support from the tutor as well as having access to the University’s library and computing facilities.
