What’s it like to study there?

“I have established a strong friendship group who will remain for next semester too. I have got an extended group of friends that include many locals through a friend from York who lives in Singapore and that has helped me find good places to eat, go out and enjoy. I have definitely become more independent as well as courageous and brave, especially when I came to Singapore only knowing Henry, but choosing to live with 5 strangers in our own apartment.”

“Singapore is a diverse and beautiful country. There are so many places to go, things to do and experiences to have. It is also incredibly well connected to close-by countries which means that trips abroad are easy to organise and not too expensive to do. There are so many different cuisines to try and a mall on every corner should you need to shop! The university is modern and fun, the resources are great and it’s only a short walk from where I am staying which is handy.”
