

Centre for Applied Human Rights

Cracking the UN Shell: Advocacy When Few Want to Listen

Maggie Murphy
Amnesty International

Maggie Murphy works primarily on furthering Amnesty International's advocacy goals within the UN's expert bodies in the fields of torture and counter-terrorism. Prior to that, she worked for the Unrepresented Nations and Peoples

Organization in The Hague where she managed lobbying strategies at the UN in Geneva and New York, organised and spoke at briefings at the European Parliament, the Italian Senate and the UK House of Commons, and undertook working visits to Iraq, the Niger Delta, Crimea and Rwanda.

Monday 6 February 2012
12:15 – 1:15 pm

Law & Management Building, Room 037
Heslington East Campus, University of York