

The Arab Domino Effect, Part II: Perspectives on Human Rights and Democratisation Processes

18 May 2011, 6 p.m.

Room PX001, Physics Exhibition Building, University of York

This event will provide an opportunity to discuss ongoing developments in the Middle East with a range of experts. The panellists are:

Haleh Afshar

Baroness Afshar is a professor in the Department of Politics who has published extensively on women's rights and the Middle East.

Hendrik Kraetzschar

Dr. Kraetzschar is a lecturer in comparative politics at the University of Leeds who has published on the process of democratic reform and authoritarian survival in the Arab world.

Brian Whitaker

Mr. Whitaker is an editor on the Guardian's Comment is Free and was formerly the Guardian's Middle East editor for seven years.

This event is free and open to the public. It is hosted by a group of students in conjunction with the Centre for Applied Human Rights.
