

Stata

Dynamic Documents

Dr Gina La Hera Fuentes (MSc Biostatistics)

Senior Lecturer UNSW

PhD Candidate UoN

Biosketch

- Gina La Hera Fuentes is a Medical Doctor with a Master in Biostatistics and currently a PhD Candidate in Health Economics at the University of Newcastle.
- She received her MD and her PHS degrees from the University of San Andrés - Bolivia, and her MSc Biostatistics from the INSP - Mexico.
- She has working experience in research, implementation science, public health policy, project management, data analysis and human resources training in areas of HIV/AIDS, Non- Communicable Diseases and risk factors.
- In 2014 she started working at the department of Economics of the Centre for Health Systems Research - National Institute of Public Health – INSP - Mexico and participating in research of Costing analysis, Economic evaluation of projects from multiple countries (Mexico, Brazil, Kenya, Rwanda, Nigeria, Zambia, South Africa and Malawi).
- Since 2019, to date, she has worked with the University of Newcastle-Australia on a smoking cessation project for Aboriginal population and with the Rural Clinical School from the University of New South Wales as a Senior Lecturer and Research Coordinator.

What are they?

BEWARE LIVING DOCUMENT!

*Figure from: <https://schedulewise.com/patient-schedule-living-document/>

Advantages

- Offers different packages of dynamic documents
- You can add your code, graphs and tables
- Flexible (multiple packages)

How to start?

Markdoc

1. Open a log document
2. Write what you want to display between `/` and `/`
3. Close log document
4. Save the document

Putdocx (Stata 15)

1. Begin the putdocx document
2. Include the information
3. Save the document

Today's activity

Learning while doing!

- Open the do file

References

- Rebecca Raciborski, Stata Newx, 32(3) Access: <https://www.stata.com/stata-news/news32-3/spotlight-putdocx/>
- Haghish, E. F. (2014). Dynamic documents in Stata: MarkDoc, Ketchup, and Weaver. Access: https://www.stata.com/meeting/italy14/abstracts/materials/it14_haghish.pdf