The Bigger Picture

Department for Education

The DfE's teacher development reforms have created a 'golden thread' of high-quality evidence underpinning the support, training and development available through the entirety of a teacher's career.

The highlighted section below shows how all new entrants to the profession will benefit from initial teacher training (ITT) courses that incorporate the content of the ITT Core Content Framework (CCF), which sets out what ITT providers and their partnerships must draw upon when designing and delivering their programmes.

Annex A – New teacher development system

The ITT Core Content Framework (CCF)

The CCF forms the foundation of all teacher training courses in England. It was designed by the Department for Education (DfE) to detail the 'minimum entitlement of all trainee teachers'

The framework has been created to support the trainees development across 5 key areas:

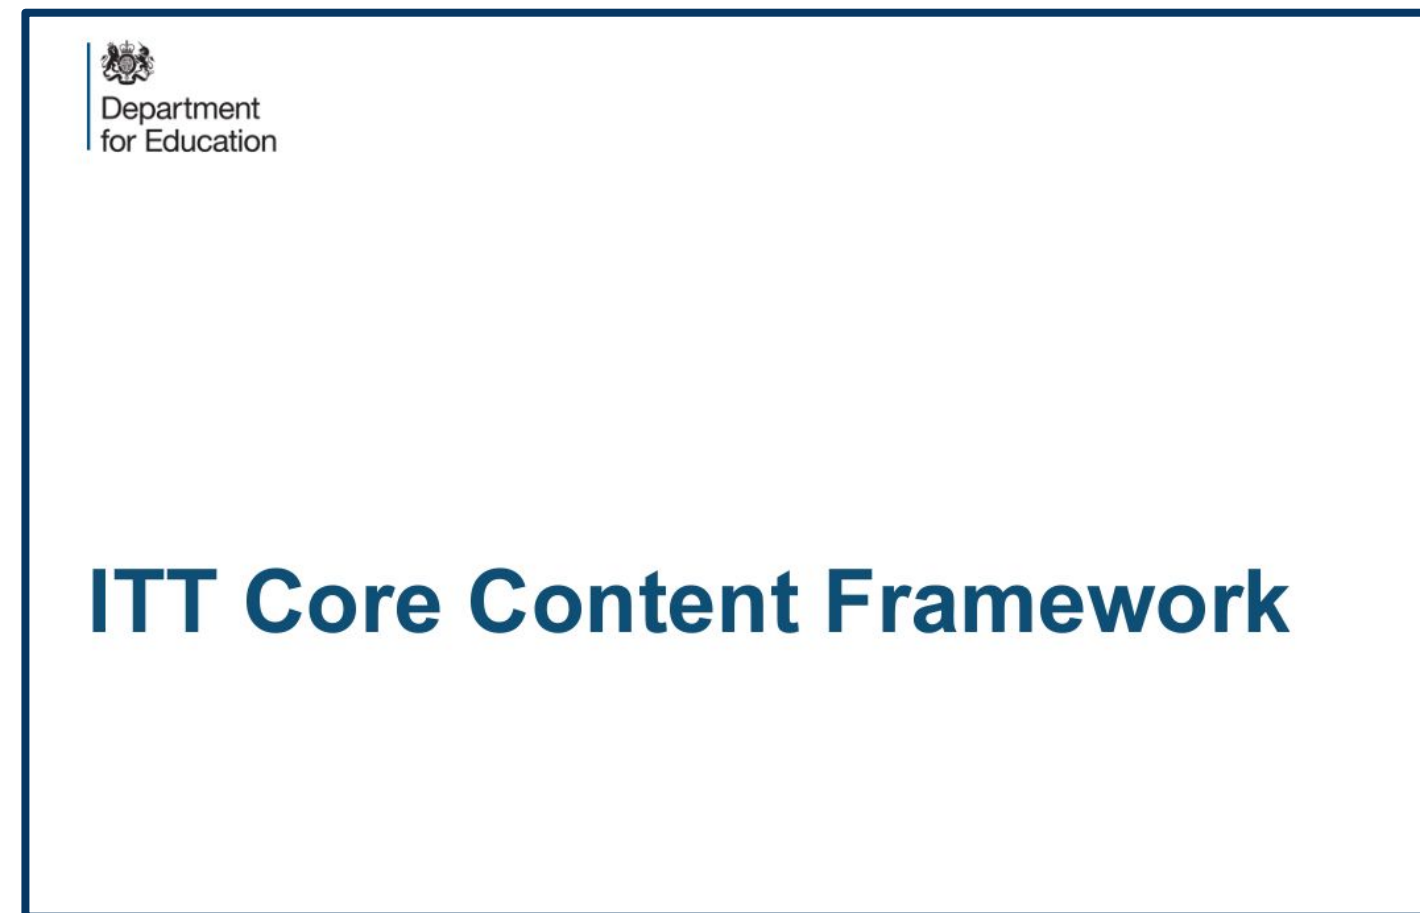

- pedagogy
- assessment
- behaviour management
- curriculum
- professional behaviours

The ITT Core Content Framework (CCF)

The CCF is divided into 8 sections, each correlating with one of the 8 Teachers' Standards.

1. High expectations
2. How pupils learn
3. Subject and curriculum
4. Classroom practice
5. Adaptive teaching
6. Assessment
7. Managing behaviour
8. Professional behaviours

Learn that... statements

details the pedagogical knowledge you need to have to understand a particular standard. These statements are all based on educational research into what makes good teaching.

Subject and Curriculum (Standard 3 – ‘Demonstrate good subject and curriculum knowledge’)

Learn that...

1. A school's curriculum enables it to set out its vision for the knowledge, skills and values that its pupils will learn, encompassing the national curriculum within a coherent wider vision for successful learning.
2. Secure subject knowledge helps teachers to motivate pupils and teach effectively.
3. Ensuring pupils master foundational concepts and knowledge before moving on is likely to build pupils' confidence and help them succeed.
4. Anticipating common misconceptions within particular subjects is also an important aspect of curricular knowledge; working closely with colleagues to develop an understanding of likely misconceptions is valuable.
5. Explicitly teaching pupils the knowledge and skills they need to succeed within particular subject areas is beneficial.
6. In order for pupils to think critically, they must have a secure understanding of knowledge

Learn how to...

Deliver a carefully sequenced and coherent curriculum, by:

- Receiving clear, consistent and effective mentoring in how to identify essential concepts, knowledge, skills and principles of the subject.
- Observing how expert colleagues ensure pupils' thinking is focused on key ideas within the subject and deconstructing this approach.
- Discussing and analysing with expert colleagues the rationale for curriculum choices, the process for arriving at current curriculum choices and how the school's curriculum materials inform lesson preparation.

And - following expert input - by taking opportunities to practise, receive feedback and improve at:

- Providing opportunity for all pupils to learn and master essential concepts, knowledge, skills and principles of the subject.
- Working with expert colleagues to accumulate and refine a collection of powerful analogies, illustrations, examples, explanations and demonstrations.
- Using resources and materials aligned with the school curriculum (e.g. textbooks or shared resources designed by expert colleagues that carefully sequence content).
- Being aware of common misconceptions and discussing with expert colleagues how to help pupils master important concepts.

explain what trainees are entitled to experience and practise, focusing on the skills needed to be a successful teacher.

All elements of the CCF are integrated into the PGCE programme to create a coherent sequence that supports trainees to succeed in the classroom

Trainees are not assessed against the Core Content Framework; The Core Content Framework (CCF) stipulates the learning and practice trainees must experience, and has been formulated to ensure trainees receive sufficient training in all areas presented on the Teachers' Standards.

Trainees will be awarded QTS at the end of their training once their CA lead and the DITT has determined that the trainee can successfully demonstrate all of the key competencies in the Teachers' Standards.

Essentials of a good UoY mentor

National standards for school-based initial teacher training (ITT) mentors (2016)

Personal qualities

Establish trusting relationships, modelling high standards of practice, and empathising with the challenges a trainee faces.

Teaching

Support trainees to develop their teaching practice in order to set high expectations and to meet the needs of all pupils.

Professionalism

Induct the trainee into professional norms and values, helping them to understand the importance of the role and responsibilities of teachers in society.

Self-development and working in partnership

Continue to develop their own professional knowledge, skills and understanding and invest time in developing a good working relationship with our UoY partnership and ITT community.

The value of a great mentor

I appreciated my mentor making sure that I was integrated into the department and giving constructive feedback.

My mentor Incredibly supportive, understanding and realistic about my performance with a difficult class.

My school mentor helped introduce me to the rest of the department so that I felt comfortable and welcome.

My mentor provided constructive but positive feedback that allowed me to reflect.

SUMMER 2023
60 YEAR SPECIAL EDITION

Embracing Change and Inspiring Minds

WELCOME BY CLAIRE BALL SMITH, DIRECTOR OF INITIAL TEACHER TRAINING AT THE UNIVERSITY OF YORK

Academic year 2022/23 has been the first year in the last few where all placements ran to schedule, most trainees had a training year without interruption, and most schools were running normal timetables with their usual curricula offer happening. One would think then that a smoother training journey lay ahead for our 2022/23 cohort, but the small matter of quite a few extra Bank Holidays (during May) and the highly unusual feature of teacher strike days (in Spring and Summer Terms) meant that in fact, the trainee cohort had to juggle a lot of change and last minute interruption to their normal course programme, especially towards the end of the second placement. Quite a few trainees also taught in schools where Ofsted came along this year, as a return to more normal inspection activity resumed in the region.

6/11/23	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	We have focused on getting established with my new classes and the importance of setting my expectations, which reinforce and show my understanding of the school's policies. We also discussed a number of strategies for gaining the whole class attention and having clear expectations about whether the tasks I set are silent work, discussion work, paired or independent work. We also considered the importance of place context in teaching geography and how this can be reinforced through the use of maps and Google Earth.	1. Set my expectations with each class that I take over.	After bell work - have a single slide with the key points, aligned with school's behaviour policy.	1			Confi...	I did this with both classes that I met this week and felt it helped the students to view me as their teacher as they see was confident in understanding the school's behaviour system. I will continue this with other classes that I teach for the first time
				2. Build confidence with gaining the attention of all in the class.	Use of 3-2-1 countdown and then pause for silence.	7	9/11/23 P1 8A2	12/11/23	Som...	Whilst I did try this with both classes, the students were not always quiet when I reached 1 and my mentor observed that I had not waited for the class to be quiet at that point. This is a strategy that I need to continue to embed as it did reduce the noise in the room.	AB
				3. When introducing a new place, share the locational context with the class.	Start at school, then use Google Earth to zoom to location. Ask students to identify key aspects (continents, nearby oceans etc)	3			Confi...	The students seemed to enjoy the use of Google Earth and it helped the students to visualise the landscape of Egypt, which we were able to later link with the desert climate.

National re-accreditation of ITT

ITT Market Review - started in 2020, paused during global pandemic, resumed in Jan 2021

July 2021 - Market Review Report

The review considered how the ITT sector can provide consistently high-quality training, in line with the core content framework, in a more efficient and effective market.

The aim of the review was to make well informed, evidence-based recommendations on how to make sure:

- all trainees receive high-quality training
- the ITT market maintains the capacity to deliver enough trainees and is accessible to candidates
- the ITT system benefits all schools

All providers wishing to offer ITE from 2024 required to take part in a re-accreditation process and meet certain criteria

Main ways this will affect York PGCE

- Change in terminology
- Revised course structure
- Strengthened mentoring partnership
