

University of York English Department Postgraduate Conference

18th May 2015

9:00-9:35	Registration, Tea & Coffee (Bowland Auditorium)
9:35-9:40	Welcome
9:40-11:10	Panel 1: Reinventions, Repercussions, Revisitation
	Gregory Carter Making Visible the Structures of Inequality: the Retrieval of the Imperial Bureaucratic Agent and ‘The Horror’ of Transformative Representation in District 9 .
	Richard Lukey To Hyde in Translation: Douglas Hyde's Love Songs of Connacht and the Problem of Irish Nationalism.
	Mobeen Hussain Recovering, Writing, and Re-Writing the Narrative of Lucknow's Courtesans in Nineteenth Century India.
	Chair: Danielle Simard
11:10-11:30	Tea/ Coffee Break
11:30-13:00	Panel 2: Influences
	Nikolas Gunn ‘Now after their example’: English Influence on the Development of Old Norse Literature.
	Carla Suthren ‘The more than honeyed sweetness of this poet’s style’: Reading Euripides with Erasmus.
	Sam Simpson The Monk and Revolution.
	Chair: Stephen Grace
13:00-14:00	Lunch
14:00-15:30	Panel 3: Subverting Space
	Heather Hind ‘Night in the noontime’: Framing Time in H. Rider Haggard’s King Solomon’s Mines .
	Laura Blomvall Lyric Form and the Bombing of London.
	Hannah Kershaw Navigating the Muslim Migrant Experience in Nadeem Aslam’s Maps for Lost Lovers .
	Chair: Leigh Whitlie
15:30-15:40	Short Break
15:40-17:10	Panel 4: (Re)Visions
	Francesca Arnavas Lewis Carroll and the Mysteries of the Mind.
	Tom Lubek Space in Rear Window Re-Visited: Questions of Spectatorship, Community and Surveillance.
	Giacomo Valeri Pearl and the Subject of Dreaming.
	Chair: Jimi Price
17:10-17:30	Tea/ Coffee Break
17:30-19:00	Plenary Address: Professor Cathy Shrank (University of Sheffield) “I almost got a job as a historian”: Thinking about English as a Multidisciplinary Subject.
	Chair: Anna Valent
19:00	Closing Remarks & Wine Reception