Assessment Guidance

Formative – 500-word draft
You will have the opportunity to submit and receive feedback on a 500-word (maximum) draft relating to your summative assessment (essay).

Your formative draft may include:
- An outline of your chosen topic/essay focus and rationale.
- How you have accessed sources/relevant reading, and examples of key source material you will use to underpin your work.
- An essay plan outlining your proposed structure and how you will develop your discussion – i.e. the main points you plan to cover in your essay.
- Draft section(s) of your essay with specific questions relating to areas of your work you require feedback on (e.g. application of theory to practice; level of analysis; explanation of relevant issues etc).

Summative – Essay
You are required to write an essay entitled: What makes me a good nurse?

Your essay should consider the attributes, values and behaviours that good nurses demonstrate. Choose ONE attribute, value or behaviour of a good nurse that you feel is relevant to you. Discuss how you have demonstrated your chosen attribute, value or behaviour in your own practice, with reference to the learning undertaken during this module.

The following aspects should be included:
- A brief overview of the range of attributes, values and behaviours of a good nurse, presented within the personal, professional, political, and social context.
- The attribute, value or behaviour under exploration should be clearly stated and the rationale for your choice provided.
- Differing perspectives of the attribute, value or behaviour, including those of patients/clients should be considered.
- A comparison between the attribute, value or behaviour and your personal abilities should be given.
- You should refer to observations from practice and relevant nursing literature to develop your discussion.
- The development of aesthetic knowledge and individual professional identity should be considered.
- What you have learned through reading, practice and discussion in this essay; areas for future development should be clearly identified.

You must use predominantly nursing literature to support your work.

You may draw on experiences from your learning log and portfolio within your discussion.

You may draw on knowledge obtained in the Professional Identity and Promoting Quality & Safety in Healthcare modules.
