

Do you have a general interest in Art and Architecture?
Would you like to learn more about these subjects?

If so, have you considered studying an MA in History of Art?

The good news is that you're living in the right area:

The University of York's "world-leading"* History of Art Department offers a flexible taught MA programme which can be studied either full- or part-time, and which you can tailor to suit your individual needs and interests.

Your first degree doesn't have to be in History of Art and you don't have to have studied an undergraduate course recently— you just need to demonstrate an enthusiastic interest in the subject and the potential for successful study.

As an MA student in the department, you would benefit from:

- ◇ World-leading teaching and research
- ◇ A highly innovative and flexible degree programme
- ◇ Teaching by distinguished visiting scholars
- ◇ A large and dynamic postgraduate community
- ◇ An exciting new MA partnership with Tate Britain
- ◇ Our close links with national and international galleries, museums and auction-houses
