Autumn 2016
The Treehouse, Berrick Saul Building

A WORKSHOP SERIES to explore interdisciplinary ideas and develop interdisciplinary projects in the ARTS AND HUMANITIES.

‘Exploratory conversations across the Arts, Humanities and Environment’

An HRC Proposition session in collaboration with the ‘Culture and Communication’ research theme

Thursday 8th December 2016, 2pm - 5:15pm

Landscapes, People, Place, Wildlife, History

Tools, Policy, Futures, Climate Change, Energy, GIS/Mapping

Led by Mark Jenner (History) and Piran White (Environment), and with collaborative input from colleagues in Archaeology, English, Environment, History, History of Art, Language and Linguistic Science, the Stockholm Environment Institute, Theatre Film and Television, and the York Management School.

Short talks and discussions from colleagues across departments as a sample insight into the interests Arts and Humanities academics have in the environment, and those academics from the Environment Department have in the arts and humanities, and exploring ways of developing these mutual interests.
