8. MODULES

The regular YorkCourse comprises three modules: one in English Literature, one in Cultural Studies and one in English Language and Linguistics. Sometimes our students follow only two out of three of these regular modules. This could be where they (a) come under a special agreement and study an online module from their home institution or (b) take our research extension module (REM) in place of one of the regular modules.

The REM option is for students who would like to or need to write a dissertation (bacheloroppgave) whilst in York, or who would like to take more credits in one particular field. The prerequisite for admission is that you have at least a B in the REM subject from previous studies (Literature grades may count for a Culture REM).

You will find a description of all of the course modules, as well as other relevant information, on our website:

http://www.york.ac.uk/nsc/yorkcourse/

Choice of Literature Module

Please indicate which literature module you would prefer to study.
(NB – we cannot guarantee that you will get the module you prefer.)

☐ The Victorians

☐ Multicultural and Global Literature

☐ I do not wish to study the regular Literature module as I am taking the REM option/coming under an agreement requiring me to study only two of the three regular modules.
REM Option (oppgave/dissertation)

If you do not wish to write a dissertation then please continue to section 9: Acceptance.

If you do wish to write a dissertation please indicate your choices below (it is possible to change these options later):

I would like to write a dissertation in

- Literature
- Linguistics
- Cultural Studies

I understand that therefore I will take the regular module in this subject as well as the REM option.

The ONE of the remaining two regular modules I would like to study is in:

- Literature
- Linguistics
- Cultural Studies
- I am currently undecided and would like to try out the other two modules for a few weeks before deciding.

If you have questions about our REM option please consult:

http://www.york.ac.uk/nsc/yorkcourse/course/modules/spring/#tab-4 and/or contact us on nsc@york.ac.uk.

9. ACCEPTANCE

I have read the information on the course, and will meet any future deadlines such as for confirming my acceptance of a place at the NSC if I should be offered one, and for sending any supporting documentation such as grades for modules I am currently studying.
