

Designed and developed by Dr Ruth Penfold-Mounce and Matt Coward-Gibbs, alongside an interdisciplinary team of expert speakers, the York Death & Culture Walk is a walking tour of the City of York. It offers participants the opportunity to engage with the places and spaces associated with death, dying and disposal in sensory and corporeal ways.

The team would like to thank the following organisations for generously supporting this project:

Now you have a copy of the York Death & Culture Walk map, it's time to begin your journey through the streets of the ancient walled city of York.

This walking tour is presented entirely through podcasts which can be downloaded from your favourite podcasting directory, including:

- iTunes
- Stitcher
- SoundCloud
- PocketCasts

We'd love to hear your feedback. Please feel free to leave us a review on your chosen podcasting directory. Alternatively, you can contact the York Death & Culture Walk team via email at death-and-culture@york.ac.uk
