

May 2018 newsletter

WUN RMP

Applications for the 2018 Worldwide Universities Network's Research Mobility Programme are now open.

The WUN Research Mobility Programme (RMP) funds up to £2,500 for travel to a WUN international partner university in order to support long-term research links, exchange expertise, and share access to specialist facilities. Deadline: Friday 29 June 2018.

- Find out more about the Research Mobility Programme

Support PhD students at the Three Minute Thesis final

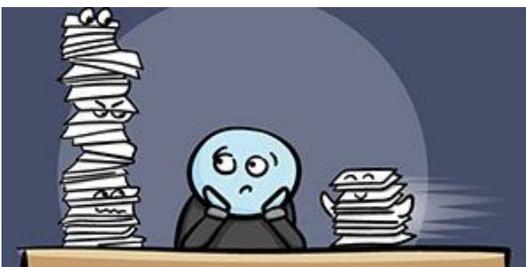

With just three minutes to impress you with their research, who will have the most engaging ideas?

Support our PhD community at the Three Minute Thesis final on Tuesday 12 June from 6.00pm to 7.15pm. The event is part of the Festival of Ideas and is hosted by Greg Dyke.

- Get your free 3MT tickets

Pushing through procrastination

This workshop is for those that want to understand the causes of procrastination and to practise new ways to overcome the behaviour. It takes place on Tuesday 22 May at Wentworth College.

- Book your free place

Digital Wednesdays

Digital training events are running every Wednesday afternoon during term time. A forthcoming session is on creating research posters: what approach to use and how you can use Powerpoint to enhance the quality of your images and text for a printed poster.

- Find out more about Digital Wednesdays

New online resource and discussion for researcher development

The first of a new series of online researcher development presentations is now live, focusing on 'Leadership, Networks and Raising Profile'. Learn about the experience of senior researchers across a network of universities and ask questions before a live online discussion on Tuesday 22 May.

- Watch the 'Leadership, Networks and Raising Profile' video

Funding and opportunities

See the York Research Student Community Google+ group for more details:

- Applications for the 2019 Japanese Government (MEXT) Postgraduate Scholarship now open
- Up to £1200 to support initiatives oriented towards the development of large-scale medical humanities research projects
- £300 for PhD students and early career researchers to attend the N8 AgriFood International Conference 2018 in June

All these news items and more can be found at the York Research Student Community

www.york.ac.uk/YGRS

Sent this in error? Email: ygrs@york.ac.uk