The End of the Line: The Impact of County Lines on Young People in Target Destinations

Prof John Pitts, University of Bedfordshire
11th September 2019
1.15pm (registration from 1.00) to 4.15pm
York Pavilion Hotel, YO10 4PJ

For the past ten years Professor John Pitts has undertaken studies of gangs and gang crime in London, Manchester, West Yorkshire and East Anglia.

In this seminar John will outline his view of the evolution of illicit drug distribution in England and Wales in the recent period, its impact upon the nature of youth gangs and gang crime in the metropolitan areas and its effects on the young people and their families in the targeted destinations. He will also ask participants to recount their experiences of working with gang-involved young people and their views about the effects of the drugs business on young people and their families in County Lines target destinations.

For subscribing organisations this is an Children’s Services event. For others there is a fee of £95.

Bursaries are available for students, staff and service users, as well as for volunteers from voluntary groups, community groups and charities; please ask for details:
