Scope of policy
This policy applies to all applications for undergraduate and postgraduate programmes at the University of York ("the University"), the Hull York Medical School ("HYMS"), and other professional training programmes run in collaboration with contracted third parties. The policy is intended to give guidance to staff and prospective students on the University’s procedures for recruiting, selecting and admitting undergraduate, postgraduate, and visiting students to both campus-based and online programmes.

Admissions to the Foundation Certificate and Pre-Masters programmes at the University’s International Pathway College (IPC) are handled by Kaplan International Colleges (KIC) and are not covered by this policy. Any issues relating to these admissions will be dealt with in accordance with the admissions policies of KIC and/or the University as appropriate. This includes the management of complaints concerning admissions to the IPC.

Responsibility and monitoring of policies and procedures
Admissions policy: This policy is the responsibility of the Head of Admissions and is reviewed and updated annually.

Admissions procedures: The admission of students to the University and to HYMS is managed by Marketing, Recruitment, Admissions and Outreach (MRAO). The Head of Admissions is responsible for the delivery of the overall admissions service. The respective Deputy Heads of Admissions for Undergraduate and Postgraduate Admissions monitor admissions procedures within MRAO. Admissions procedures are regularly reviewed and updated where necessary.

Departmental admissions procedures are monitored by departmental admissions tutors or boards of studies with advice from the Head of Admissions and the Senior Admissions Managers.

Responsibilities

Responsibility for recruitment and admissions activities

MRAO works closely with academic departments and other support services across the University to ensure the delivery of a fair, effective and professional recruitment and admissions service.

MRAO:

- ensures the effective implementation of the Admissions Policy and associated procedures;
- promotes the University and its programmes through a range of marketing and recruitment activities and materials;
- provides information, advice and guidance to academic departments, support services, enquirers, applicants and their advisors;
- assesses applications to make or authorise decisions to offer or reject;
- informs the University planning process surrounding the delivery of student intakes and programme approvals and withdrawals;
● working with academic departments, informs the setting of entry requirements;
● develops, delivers and maintains appropriate admissions systems; and
● provides training sessions and information events for all staff involved in recruitment and admissions activities.

Academic departments:

● provide course and selection information to inform the development of publications and to enable accurate and informative responses to enquiries;
● participate fully in enquirer and applicant engagement activities, such as Open Days and Visit Days;
● working with MRAO, determine selection criteria to be used in the assessment of applications in order to ensure the recruitment of students who are able to succeed on their chosen programme of study; and
● assess applications and recommend decisions.

Training

The University is committed to ensuring that all admissions staff are fully trained in admissions procedures and compliance aspects and are kept aware of any changes in policy made nationally or at an institutional level. Training in admissions is the responsibility of MRAO.

MRAO runs an annual training session for all new admissions tutors and refresher training for more experienced staff. This training offers guidance in key areas and highlights the role of departmental admissions staff.

At key points in the admissions cycle, MRAO hosts a number of information and briefing sessions for all staff involved in recruitment and admissions. These meetings are intended to inform departmental staff of any changes in admissions practice and to share good practice in admissions.

MRAO also provides admissions system-specific training sessions for admissions staff.

Ad hoc working groups may be convened to develop policy, process or practice in relation to a particular admissions area or issue. Conferences may also be attended as required to discuss specific admissions issues.

Enabling prospective applicants to make informed choices

Information for enquirers, applicants and their advisors

The University selects and recruits students by:

● providing clear and transparent admissions information to prospective applicants
● operating a fair and effective admissions process
● ensuring the consistent application of policy across the University
● encouraging applications from the widest range of educational, social and cultural backgrounds

The University participates in activities to promote the University and its programmes, including open days, higher education fairs and education liaison events.

Admissions and programme information is published in our annual undergraduate and postgraduate prospectuses and is available through our Course Finder at:

www.york.ac.uk

Information on undergraduate and postgraduate programmes is also available at:

www.ucas.com
Further information on postgraduate programmes is also available through a range of external directories which are reviewed and updated as appropriate by MRAO.

Applicants are advised to refer to our webpages for the most up-to-date information.

Entry requirements and typical offers

The University welcomes applications from candidates who can demonstrate that they have the ability to succeed on the programme to which they have applied and that they will benefit from and contribute to the learning, research and social environment at the University.

The University’s typical academic entry requirements for each programme are set by the relevant department or school in consultation with MRAO and are published in the annual undergraduate and postgraduate prospectuses and via the Course Finder (www.york.ac.uk). For undergraduate courses the academic entry requirements can also be found on the UCAS website (www.ucas.com).

Applications are considered individually and holistically, and meeting typical entry requirements does not therefore automatically guarantee an offer of admission especially in relation to programmes that are oversubscribed.

Academic requirements

The University considers a wide range of UK, EU and international qualifications for entry and applicants can be assured of flexible and individual consideration of their qualifications profile.

Undergraduate programmes:

Details of general entry requirements can be found at:

www.york.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/applying/entry

Please see the ‘Contextual information’ section of this policy for further details concerning the University’s approach to contextual offer making.

Postgraduate taught programmes:

For MA / MSc taught programmes, candidates should normally possess at least a lower second class (2ii) honours degree (or equivalent alternative or overseas qualification). However some programmes require a higher academic entry requirement so candidates should always refer to the respective individual programme requirements.

Postgraduate research programmes:

For MD, MPhil or PhD research programmes, candidates will be expected to have a first degree, normally an upper second class (2i) honours degree (or equivalent alternative or overseas qualification) in a relevant subject, or a relevant postgraduate Masters qualification (or equivalent). For admission to an MA or MSc programme by research, candidates should normally possess at least a lower second class (2ii) honours degree (or equivalent alternative or overseas qualification). Some programmes require a higher academic entry requirement so candidates should always refer to the respective individual programme requirements.

Exceptions (academic waivers) for postgraduate programmes: Exceptions to academic requirements may be made, for example for candidates applying to take programmes as mid-career continuing professional development or those with extensive relevant work experience. Such exceptions will require the support of the Head of Department or Chair of Graduate School (or delegate) and approval of the Associate Pro-Vice Chancellor for Teaching, Learning and Students (or delegate) for taught programmes, and the Dean of the York Graduate Research School (YGRS) (or delegate) for research programmes.
English Language requirements

All applicants to the University whose first language is not English are required to show evidence of the level of their proficiency in the English language. The following scores in English language qualifications are required as a minimum by the University:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English Language Qualification</th>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cambridge Certificate in Advanced English – CAE</td>
<td>169 with no less than 162 in each component</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cambridge Certificate of Proficiency in English – CPE</td>
<td>169 with no less than 162 in each component</td>

</tbody>
</table>

English Language test scores will only be considered valid if achieved within two years of the starting date of the proposed programme.

Beyond these minimum requirements, individual departments set their own English language entry requirements. Further details of the requirements for each programme are available on the respective course pages below.

Undergraduate programmes:

www.york.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/courses

Postgraduate Taught programmes:

www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/courses

Postgraduate Research programmes:

www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-research/courses
Alternative evidence of English Language ability

Postgraduate applicants for whom English is not their first language but who have successfully followed or are currently following a full-time university degree level programme of a minimum of one year’s duration in the UK or other UKVI majority English speaking country may be exempt from the English Language requirement. The previous study must normally have been completed within two years of the proposed programme’s start date.

Where appropriate the University may allow an undergraduate or postgraduate applicant who does not meet the English Language requirement to undertake an English language pre-sessional programme. In such a case, results from completion of the pre-sessional programme may be used as evidence to satisfy English Language requirement.

Where appropriate the University may consider other evidence of English Language ability which it deems to indicate a level of ability equal to the minimum requirement as set out above.

References

Applicants to undergraduate programmes are normally required to submit one academic reference as part of their UCAS application.

Applicants to postgraduate taught programmes who graduated within the previous five years are normally required to submit one academic reference as part of their online application in Select (see below). For candidates who graduated more than five years previously alternative professional references will be considered (e.g. from employers, a senior member of a voluntary organisation or recognised society, etc.).

Applicants to postgraduate research programmes are normally required to submit two academic references as part of their application.

Further information concerning the content and format of postgraduate references is available at:

www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/apply/documents
www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-research/apply/documents

Non-academic requirements

There are additional non-academic requirements for applicants to subjects allied to medicine (which include Nursing and Midwifery), social work and teaching courses. Further details including Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) requirements and Fitness to Practise requirements are available from individual departments. Any such requirements are signalled on individual course pages.

Verification

The University requires applicants to provide satisfactory evidence of their achievement and reserves the right to verify all qualifications declared by an applicant. In the event that an applicant is unable to evidence their achievement to the satisfaction of the University, we reserve the right to withdraw the application at any point even if an offer of admission has been made. In the case of any applications received via UCAS, the University abides by UCAS rules and procedures concerning fraudulent applications. Any application received through UCAS and suspected by the University to contain fraudulent information will be referred to UCAS.
How applications are assessed

Selection principles

The University is committed to fair admissions and considers applications on a case-by-case basis, assessing both ability and suitability for the course that has been applied to. The University considers past and predicted academic achievements as well as other evidence of ability, skills, interests, motivation and potential.

The University’s processes are designed to lead to the selection of students who can be expected to complete their studies successfully. Selection decisions are made by trained staff in both academic departments and MRAO. In order to ensure fairness and consistency in decision making, all decisions are authorised by MRAO.

Assessing applications

All applications are assessed individually and holistically. In assessing the ability and suitability of applicants, the following information as provided in the application form and supporting documentation may be considered:

- achievement in awarded or partially complete qualifications
- predicted achievement in qualifications yet to be awarded
- personal statement/statement in support of the application/CV
- evidence of relevant work experience (selected programmes only)
- references
- UKCAT score for undergraduate applicants to HYMS
- sample of written work (selected programmes only)
- research proposal (for postgraduate research programmes)

In addition, some programmes may require applicants to participate in an interview or audition as part of the selection process. Guidance on the conduct of interviews is available to departments who include an interview in their selection procedures.

Applications for research programmes will only be considered where an appropriate supervisor(s) and resources are expected to be available for the duration of the normal period of study. A decision to admit a student will be based on an interview and normally involve at least two members of academic staff, normally including the departmental Graduate Chair (or delegate) and the prospective supervisor.

Information about departmental selection procedures is available in the prospectus and on course webpages.

Contextual information and offer making

To gain a full understanding of an applicant’s achievement and ability, the University encourages admissions selectors to consider the contextual information provided in the application and from other sources. Consideration of contextual data allows us to look at more than exam results in the application process.

For undergraduate applications submitted via UCAS, the University receives contextual data relating to school performance (at GCSE and A level), HE participation rates according to postcode and proportion of students in the applicant’s school who are entitled to free school meals.

Based on the contextual data that we receive we will make contextual offers of one or two grades below our typical entry requirements for UK undergraduate students if they:

- live in a UK area with low progression to university (based on POLAR4 quintiles 1 or 2), or
- have spent time in local authority care (such as foster or residential care)*.
*Applicants who indicate on their UCAS form that they have been in care will also be automatically contacted by a Student Support Coordinator to support their transition and entry.

Further details about our approach to undergraduate contextual offer making are available at:

www.york.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/applying/entry/contextual-offers

Students who take part in the University’s widening participation programmes (Next Step York, Pathways to Medicine, Pathways to STEM, Realising Opportunities) will similarly receive a reduced offer of up to three grades below our typical offer. Applicants must meet certain eligibility criteria to take part in and successfully complete the respective programme. Applicants should indicate which programme they took part in on their UCAS application form.

Further details about our widening participation programmes are available at:

www.york.ac.uk/schools-and-colleges/post-16

The York Access Scheme aims to improve admission to the University for applicants who have faced challenging circumstances. The scheme provides participants with a package of information, advice and guidance including support with personal statements and information on student finance. To be eligible, students must meet one or more of these criteria:

- Have grown up in or are living in local authority care
- Entitled to discretionary payments at school or college or entitled to free school meals
- Attend, or have attended, a school which achieved less than 58% A* to C passes in 2016 (including English and Maths)
- Have had educational studies hindered by personal, social or domestic circumstances

Further details about the York Access Scheme are available at:

www.york.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/applying/how-to-apply/york-access-scheme

Contextual data is also being collected at the postgraduate level through the Select application form. This data is not being used in the assessment of individual postgraduate applications whilst we consider the evidence base and reliability.

Keeping applicants informed

Communicating with applicants

The University recognises the importance of keeping applicants informed throughout the application process. Key updates are provided throughout the admissions cycle and may be communicated either directly by the University, or through UCAS. Communications include, but are not limited to:

- Acknowledgement of application receipt
- Confirmation that a decision has been made
- Confirmation of any conditions required for admission if an offer has been made
- Confirmation of reasons for rejection if an application has been unsuccessful
- Confirmation of admission where all conditions have been satisfied
- Information relating to applying for accommodation
- Information relating to Tier 4 student visas and ATAS requirements (where applicable) for overseas students
- Welcome and enrolment information

Where applicants have previously agreed to receive additional information, we may also provide information about events, activities and opportunities at the University which we think might be of interest and value to them.
You@York

Undergraduate offer holders and postgraduate applicants are provided with access to an applicant portal, You@York, to enable them to engage with their application. Through You@York, applicants are able to:

- view their application
- view their offer and other related correspondence
- upload supporting documents (e.g. transcripts, certificates, etc.)
- apply for a Tier 4 Confirmation of Acceptance for Studies (CAS) (if applicable)
- book visits to the University if appropriate
- apply for pre-sessional English Language and other courses (if applicable)

Time taken to consider an application

The University aims to consider applications and make decisions as quickly as possible.

Undergraduate programmes:

The University respects the UCAS application deadline for guaranteed equal consideration. For highly subscribed programmes, in order to ensure fairness in decision making, decisions may not be made until after the equal consideration deadline has passed.

Postgraduate programmes:

The University aims to respond to complete applications within no more than six weeks of submission and usually sooner, though for some programmes (e.g. operating recruitment and selection rounds) and at peak times applicants may have to wait longer for a response.

Our decisions

Offers of entry for successful applicants

Successful applicants will receive an offer of admission to the University. The offer of admission will either be conditional on the basis of qualifications or other requirements yet to be completed or met, or unconditional meaning that all necessary requirements for admission have been met.

All successful applicants will be issued with a formal offer of admission to the University detailing:

- details of the programme of study being offered
- year of entry
- duration
- tuition fee status and tuition fees
- details of how to respond to the offer
- University terms and conditions

Undergraduate applicants:

Offer conditions and response deadlines will be confirmed via UCAS Track.

Postgraduate applicants:

Offer conditions and response deadlines (if applicable) will be confirmed in the offer letter via You@York.

Alternative course offers

The University may decide that it is unable to offer admission to the original programme to which an applicant has applied, but is able to make an offer for an alternative programme. In this situation, the University will normally contact the applicant to confirm that they wish to be made the offer for the alternative programme.

Feedback for unsuccessful applicants

The University is committed to providing feedback to applicants who have not been offered a place.

All unsuccessful applicants are given feedback via UCAS Track (undergraduate applicants) or via You@York (postgraduate applicants). Applicants wishing to request additional feedback may contact the respective admissions team in writing (by email or letter). Applicants are able to request feedback at any time during the admissions year in which they are applying. The University aims to respond to requests for feedback within twenty working days of receipt of a request.
Applicant responses

Responding to offers and response deadlines

Undergraduate applicants:

Undergraduate applicants should respond to their offers via UCAS Track. Response deadlines will be notified via UCAS Track.

By accepting the offer of a place on a course as their ‘Firm’ or ‘Insurance’ choice, a contract is made between the applicant and the University. Applicants are encouraged to make an informed decision, and can change their replies within 14 days of accepting the offer and by contacting UCAS. After the 14 day period, it may still be possible to do this, but you will need to contact the University and UCAS to arrange this. This also applies to applicants to the PGCE and MA in Social Work which (as above) are managed through UCAS.

Postgraduate applicants:

Postgraduate applicants should respond to their offers via You@York. Where response deadlines apply, these will be confirmed within the offer letter.

By accepting the offer of a place on a course, a contract is made between the applicant and the University. Applicants who accept their offer but change their mind and wish to subsequently decline have the right under Consumer Protection Law to cancel this contract within 14 days without giving any reason. Subsequent changes to responses can be made via You@York.

Confirmation of a place

Meeting conditions

If an applicant who has received a conditional offer fulfils the conditions of the offer as specified or if the University exercises its discretion to accept an applicant in a case where conditions have not been met, then an unconditional offer will be made. Confirmation will be provided either via UCAS Track (undergraduates) or by email and You@York (postgraduates).

Deadlines for satisfying offer conditions

Undergraduate applicants:

Academic and non-academic conditions (other general entry requirements) of offers must be met by 31 August of the application cycle in which the application has been submitted (this also applies to applications for deferred entry). This is explained in the UCAS offer letter which applicants receive when an institution makes an offer of admission. This means that the University needs to have received results either through UCAS or directly from the applicant by 31 August to guarantee the place on the course.

Where results are received after 31 August, we may be able to confirm places depending on the availability of places; however, this is not always possible. Applicants should ensure that we receive all the results upon which their offer is based by 31 August to ensure that we are able to process them and, if appropriate, confirm the applicant’s place.

If a decision is made to reject an applicant who has not met the conditions of an offer on the basis of results received from an applicant or via UCAS which are subsequently changed due to a remark or other change, the University cannot guarantee to reverse the original decision even if the change means that the applicant is now able to meet the conditions of the offer. In such a case, acceptance will be at the University’s discretion and, if made, may be for a different entry point or year from the entry point or year specified in the original offer.
This also applies to applicants to the PGCE and MA in Social Work which (as above) are managed through UCAS.

Postgraduate applicants:

There are no fixed deadlines by which conditions of offers have to be met for postgraduate applicants. However, all conditions must be met before a postgraduate applicant will be able to enrol as a student of the University. Late enrolment may be possible in some circumstances, but is at the discretion of the University.

Undergraduate and Postgraduate applicants who require a Tier 4 visa:

All conditions of their offer must have been fulfilled, and they must have applied for a CAS at least 10 days before the start date of their programme.

Applicants with disabilities

The University has an explicit policy of providing support for students with disabilities and believes that these students should have access to the full range of academic, cultural and social activities the University offers. Disability awareness training is offered to all staff. Therefore, the University will take all reasonable steps to meet both the general need for access and the specific needs of individuals with disabilities.

Students with disabilities, as all other students, are accepted by the University on the basis of academic attainment and potential to benefit from the programme to which they have applied.

Applicants are encouraged to declare their disability when they apply but this is not taken into account by the staff assessing their application. If an offer is progressed information relating to a candidate’s disability will subsequently be shared with assessors to allow them to engage in further discussion with the applicant and identify appropriate adjustments where applicable in order to ensure that the applicant is supported effectively on the course. Applicants who choose not to disclose their disability or long term health condition at the point of application will be provided with other opportunities to provide such information later in the process. Any disability disclosure will be dealt with confidentially and sensitively.

If any candidate feels that their disability has meant that they faced exceptional circumstances which should be taken into account by the University when considering their application they should inform the respective Admissions team (see contact details at the end of this document).

Certain disabilities may preclude entry to certain programmes (e.g. those in subjects allied to medicine, and those leading to qualified teacher status). Where the adjustments needed to provide the required support are not considered reasonable, the University will undertake to support the applicant in considering an alternative programme where appropriate.

Applicants with other long term health conditions

Applicants with other long term health conditions (which are distinct from a disability) are encouraged to contact the relevant academic department as soon as possible to engage in further discussion with the assessor and identify appropriate adjustments where applicable in order to ensure that the applicant is supported effectively on the course.

If any candidate feels that their long term health condition has meant that they faced exceptional circumstances which should be taken into account by the University when considering their application they should inform the respective Admissions team (see contact details at the end of this document).

Offers made to subjects allied to medicine (which include Nursing and Midwifery), social work and teaching courses are conditional upon a satisfactory occupational health assessment to be undertaken before the commencement of studies. Applicants will be advised if these or any other conditions apply when they are made an offer of a place.
Further information relating to occupational health assessment for the relevant subjects is available at:

- Medicine
  www.hyms.ac.uk/medicine/applying-to-study-medicine/health-checks
- Nursing and Midwifery
  www.york.ac.uk/healthsciences/student-intranet/support/occupational-health
- Social Work
  www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/courses/ma-social-work/#entry
- Teaching
  www.york.ac.uk/education/pgce/prospective/applying

Applicants who have faced exceptional circumstances

If any candidate feels that any disability, long term health condition, or other personal circumstance (e.g. bereavement, or other difficult home or family circumstances) may have affected their previous education, or grades received in past examinations, then they are encouraged to contact the Admissions team to discuss this further. All formal requests for mitigating circumstances which are supported by a full declaration about the nature of the circumstances will be considered in the admissions process.

Where those circumstances are affecting, or have affected, current studies applicants should notify the relevant exam board of those circumstances. Whilst an applicant is welcome to notify (via a verified statement) the relevant Admissions team of the circumstances, the University will assume that the relevant exam board will take the circumstances into consideration and any mitigating circumstances have been taken into account in the final results and these final results will be used when making a decision.

Student immigration

Entry clearance

Students wishing to enter the UK must comply with the UK Visas and Immigration (UKVI) Points-based Immigration System. Further information is available at:

  www.gov.uk/tier-4-general-visa

The University also provides additional information and support which is available at:

  www.york.ac.uk/study/international/visas-immigration

The University is committed to meeting our requirements as a sponsor of Tier 4 students. In the event of changes to immigration legislation, or if information becomes available that might impact our ability to sponsor a student, the University reserves the right to amend or withdraw an offer of admission.

Academic Technology Approval Scheme (ATAS)

Students applying for certain science, engineering or technology programmes may need to apply for an ATAS certificate before applying for a Visa, Entry Clearance or Extension of Stay. Further information is available at:

  www.gov.uk/guidance/academic-technology-approval-scheme
Applicants with criminal convictions

The University takes the view that, in principle, having a criminal record does not necessarily preclude an individual from studying at the University of York. Information concerning criminal convictions does not form part of the academic assessment of an application, nor is it shared with assessors.

For safeguarding and duty of care reasons, the University does require prospective students to disclose any relevant unspent criminal convictions, so it can assess whether admission can be granted or whether it may only be granted with possible conditions/restrictions, in order to manage risk. Please note that for some courses related to regulated professions, spent criminal convictions must also be declared. If you receive an offer from the University, you will be required to make such a disclosure at the point of accepting our offer of admission.

Together with the need to ensure that the University’s campus is a safe environment for all staff, students and visitors, the University reserves the right, upon disclosure of such convictions or these otherwise becoming known to it, to cancel/withdraw the offer, withhold admission and terminate any contract with you (where it reasonably deems that risks cannot be appropriately managed), or alternatively to designate restrictions upon you (as it reasonably sees fit to assist with managing any risks) whilst you are at the University.

If you later receive a criminal conviction (whether before enrolment/admission or during your time at the University), you are required to declare this to the Academic Registrar, providing full details. Failure to do so may constitute a disciplinary offence under Regulation 7: Student Discipline and also give the University the right to terminate our contract with you.

The University’s policy in relation to applicants with criminal convictions is kept under review and may be changed in the light of legislation and/or practice by admissions partners (e.g. UCAS).

Age on entry

The University admits students on individual merit and does not discriminate on the grounds of age. Some programmes of study are bound by external professional or placement requirements concerning age. The University is also bound by Home Office rules regarding UKVI Tier 4 visas; this means that the University is unable to sponsor (for visa purposes) students under the age of sixteen years.

Applicants for study from candidates who would be under the age of 18 at the point of entry will be considered in accordance with University Regulation 6.1:

www.york.ac.uk/about/organisation/governance/governance-documents/ordinances-and-regulations/regulation-6/#6.1

Where the age of an applicant would raise issues of safety, child protection, visa-sponsorship, personal support or issues of care, the applicant will need to satisfy the University that they have the ability to live independently in the University community, and will not be admitted without the express permission of the Registrar and Secretary (or their nominee) and the written authorisation of an appropriate adult, normally their parent or guardian.

Prospective students between the ages of 16 and 17 will be admitted only where they can demonstrate the ability to live independently in the University community. If assessments of this ability are inconclusive, admission may be offered at a later entry point.

In order to support candidates under the age of 18 the University will provide transition information and guidance to further support the candidate and their parents / carers / guardian.
Applications for advanced entry
The University will consider applicants for advanced entry (e.g. to year 2 or a later year of a programme) on an individual basis. The University considers applications for advanced entry on the basis of Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) and includes certificated or experiential learning.

The University recommends that all applicants requesting advanced entry contact the department concerned to discuss the opportunities prior to application. The department will be able to advise on its policy on advanced entry and provide specific advice for each applicant’s circumstances. Offers for advanced entry will be made in accordance with the Credit Transfer and the Recognition of Prior Learning - Principles and Policy document which can be found at:

www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/apply/prior-learning

Re-applications
The University will consider re-applications on an individual basis and reserves the right to use information from a previous application in assessing a re-application.

Re-admission of students
Applicants meeting the following criteria can only be re-admitted with the approval of the University’s Special Cases Committee. A department which wishes to readmit such a student must seek the approval of the Special Cases Committee before an offer of admission is made.

- Students who have previously been excluded from the University of York
- Undergraduate students who have previously failed a University examination at York or have withdrawn from the University and are seeking admission to the subject, or any of the subjects, previously studied
- Undergraduate students who have previously studied on a first year at York regardless of whether or not the subject(s) studied previously are the same
- Postgraduate students who have previously studied on a postgraduate programme and failed to complete it whether or not the subject(s) studied previously are the same

Applications for deferred entry
The University welcomes applications for deferred entry. Applicants who have not initially applied for deferred entry, but decide that they wish to defer their application prior to enrolment will be considered on an individual basis. These requests must be made in writing (by email or letter) to MRAO (see contact points below). In these instances deferral is not guaranteed.

Applicants must normally have satisfied all conditions of entry in order to defer their place. The normal maximum length of deferral that will be considered is two years; after this period a candidate would be required to re-apply.

Fraud, plagiarism and omission
The University will check qualifications, personal statements, written work, and research proposals provided as part of an application for potential fraud, plagiarism, collusion or other indications that the application submitted is not wholly the work of the applicant. The University will also want to ensure that candidates have provided complete information (e.g. concerning details of previous periods of study or employment) and may seek additional information to resolve any uncertainties in the application.

The University reserves the right to reject an application on the basis of lack of integrity in an application or supporting documents, and to withdraw any offer made on the basis of an application that has been found to contain fraudulent or plagiarised information, or where it believes information may have been withheld.
Any student found to have been admitted on the basis of fraudulent, plagiarised or withheld information may have their studies terminated.

Undergraduate applicants:

The University abides by UCAS rules and procedures concerning fraudulent applications. Any application suspected by the University to contain fraudulent information will be referred to UCAS.

As part of the UCAS application process all personal statements are checked for potential plagiarism via the UCAS Similarity Detection Service. UCAS will notify both the University and the applicant if they feel that there are reasonable grounds to suspect potential plagiarism. The University reviews all cases of potential plagiarism individually and may contact an applicant for more information about the situation before making a decision. The University reserves the right to reject an application on the basis of plagiarism in a personal statement or to withdraw an offer of admission should evidence of plagiarism come to light after an offer has been made.

Re-marks and appeals

Applicants who have applied for a re-mark or appeal with an awarding body should notify the University immediately. Whilst we will make every effort to reconsider applicants whose grades are amended as the result of a successful re-mark, it may not always be possible to hold an offer open pending the outcome of an appeal. In the event that a re-mark is successful and the course applied to is full, an applicant may be offered an alternative course or entry year.

Financial information

Tuition fees

Information relating to tuition fees is available as follows:

- Undergraduate applicants:

  www.york.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/fees-funding

- Postgraduate taught applicants:

  www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/fees

- Postgraduate research applicants:

  www.york.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-research/fees

Assessment of tuition fee status

The offer of admission will confirm the fees to be charged based on the programme of study and the applicant’s fee status. Applicants are assessed as eligible to pay either home tuition fees or overseas tuition fees by MRAO. This decision is based on the information provided within the application form regarding nationality and residence, and in the case of undergraduate applicants, the residential category selected via UCAS. The University is guided by information issued by the UK Council for International Student Affairs (UKCISA) in relation to fee assessment issues. Further information about UKCISA guidance is available at:

  www.ukcisa.org.uk

If the University considers an applicant’s fee status to be unclear from the information provided in the application, MRAO will contact the applicant to ask for further information. This process will normally take place at the point of offer.
By accepting our offer of admission, applicants are accepting the University’s decision in relation to their fee status. This decision is made on the basis of the available evidence at the time. Once candidates have enrolled with the University, decisions will normally only be changed where it can be shown that the University’s initial fee assessment (based on the available evidence) was incorrect or in certain cases where a student’s circumstances have changed. A change in fee status post enrolment is not guaranteed, and will be considered by the Academic Registrar (or their nominee). Where applicants consider that our decision is incorrect, they should make every effort to query this prior to enrolment.

Changes to programmes

The University undertakes a continuous review of its programmes, services and facilities to ensure quality enhancement and sometimes it is necessary to make changes. We will inform applicants at the earliest opportunity of any significant changes to or suspension of a programme made between the application being submitted, the offer of admission, and enrolment.

Enrolment and induction

Applicants who have firmly accepted an unconditional offer will be invited to enrol online. Applicants for entry in September will be invited to enrol normally from August. Applicants starting at different times throughout the year will normally be invited to enrol from approximately one month prior to entry.

As per University Regulations, students enrolled for a research, postgraduate or undergraduate degree may not usually be enrolled at the same time for any other degree or qualification at this or another institution, unless such enrolment forms part of an approved programme of study involving another institution or institutions.

Interactions between the University and the applicant

The University is committed to ensuring that any interaction with an applicant is conducted in a professional, courteous and respectful manner, and it expects the same commitment when receiving communications from all applicant.

Appeals and complaints

The University will consider all applications fairly and effectively in line with the policies outlined in this document.

Appeals:

Applicants may raise a complaint about the application process and/or its outcome, but do not have an automatic right of appeal against a decision as to whether or not they should be offered a place at the University. However, the University will normally review admissions decisions where a complaint has been received about the application process and/or its outcome, or if new information about an application comes to light.

Complaints:

The University’s Policy and Procedure for Dealing with Complaints from Students, Student Applicants and Student Placement Providers is available at:

www.york.ac.uk/about/departments/support-and-admin/sas/complaints

Applicants who experience a problem with any service provided by the University or its associated partners acting on its behalf, or anything else within the control of the University, should normally first raise the matter with the staff member responsible for the service. If informal discussion does not resolve the situation satisfactorily, then the complainant should write to: The Director of Marketing, Recruitment, Admissions and Outreach, University of York, Heslington, York YO10 5DD, or email:

   SRA-Director@york.ac.uk.

The University aims to reply promptly to all complaints.

On completing this procedure, applicants (as opposed to enrolled students) are not usually eligible to complain to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education (OIAHE). However, they should check the position with the OIAHE which is independent from the University. Further information concerning the OIAHE is available at:

   www.oiahe.org.uk

The Director of Marketing, Recruitment, Admissions and Outreach and Head of Admissions will review any complaints and where applicable review and update any necessary policies and procedures in order to improve the services that we provide to our applicants.

Equal Opportunities monitoring

The University values the diversity of its members and is committed to the creation of a positive environment which is fair, welcoming and inclusive and where everyone is treated with dignity and respect. We welcome applicants with varied experiences and different backgrounds, and are committed to ensuring that no student with potential is deterred from applying.

The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunities. To enable the University to monitor the effectiveness of this policy, applicants are asked to complete a series of Equal Opportunities Monitoring questions either through UCAS or Select. Educational institutions also have a duty under the Equality Act (2010) to advance equality of opportunity between people from different groups. Diversity awareness training is offered to all staff.
